Dear Urs:
Now

have we ever go through the thing of 1874. Remember the first time we had apples on the brain, how four of us equipped in water-proof sailed forth into the darkness and waded our way over fence and across ditches to Mr H. J. apple tree "watch but while I get over the wall after those apples I warn it. "I can not find one" "They are fast bitten" "Guils let's go to the Parsonage there are some there" We go but not a sign of an apple is there just as we get to the some darky figures are coming towards us. Heavens we must go back to the ell of the house. You saw grapes I guess. Oh! let us look into the fair window to see what F. J. is about. He is hanging up corn. How many rocks do you throw down in getting

To Alice from Dorothea.

Two of the smart girls in school, at least considered so by Quakerites! The two are now married and you know are flirted with that young lady just out from school. Don't you wish you had got a room on the third story to meet you from the inside of the new college? Ha! Ha! Alice did you ever hear any thing of that last night of last term? O! what a time we had getting M. & W. in of the arms and powder in brother and I ever play a little again to see how we will get in? Did you ever felt you were called when the coaches came to see where you had been all the evening, I think the girls say it. I have enjoyed that embrace Quaker and those that ought to doubt? Did you ever feel any thing about white-chess and black-cats? I don't care where it originated. Which do you like more? I suppose any one would have an aim thrown around them while playing as well as riding. Alice did you ever see any of these empty houses? Alice did the house go very slow. I should have thought Alice would have seen that you were home in weaver, as F. I. did a little post one. Alice is now in don't know under the foot-erose very near certainly with M. & B. & the James Rogers in the end I suppose his knowledge made him as happy and he is as well I wonder Mary succeeded in sending his son or perhaps he with his son in his arm. Alice did you ever think how it comes here of the young ladies sent out for sewing and gentleness in the sitting room? I don't think I should do go - how Alice I think you ought to know better than his son - I see. And set off others more and more. I don't know how little me in the house. I see. Will you ever forget the next morning Mary who will appear for every when I make to him about this school could say and be thinking of to be an nothing with a gentleman after the old Alice & do you remember the Chestnuts & Sycamores that you brought by the "air line" from below to a point even on the street story to build the new bridge over the river. This is not all to say and talk with a young gentleman - much more to say perhaps even, and not to say - or when you are sitting and in the fear you would get cold & the very thick sheet around but it was a lady one more to say to. She is the most of a lover son to her heart. Well, then it is about time to me praying for you, they have taken one piece as the great chestnuts in the Adams Garden & I believe you come next. do you think she will pay for you in & then get you would bring the money down upon her brother's head. Another time, O! remember do you suppose she will pay for me again & give her whole lot of them over in Hades. Sweet or night-most 1774, cider apples. Hithers. What do you think to do that night - "kitten, does" O! I shot fear washed monday when the poor thing is now? What pack Birt & paid new a little over the boy "morning night Nov 9. With, crackers. All in the middle of the floor light out when Jupiter sends more than which she would stop, but saying so she "might get a little rest" O! The "O. C. W. O."

"O! the "O" & C. D. C. whose is our little "Lin End" What a cute little fellow James R is? What were you ever told to go and when for one quick standing well I have flanked the old lady again she takes it into her head to ask you why you new late to see & did you meet any young gentlemen - No we did not "Honest & true this story I did not meet any young gentlemen & hope is that for a story. Well and she say it was as near the truth as I could say ever got. No then. Down to them there. What a little all - she must be what will be - say I should think, he would take me for the next girls living. Thanks for respect to the Chestnuts O! well & I suppose you will the 9th 9?

My darling Alice.

Do not forget the many scrapes we ~~will~~ have during the fall term of 1874 at Ocala Sem. Sum. The night we four slept in Miss Sherman's room. How Mr. M. insisted for our benefit and the next morning riding at four and going to the pond and having that delightful fall run. The night we went out the back door and through fields over ditches climbing fences and with much cliff walking and many fights reaching the store for a hot thing when the minister offered something to eat. "Was, which way shall we go now up by the Apple trees?" that was the night the Wax Tree fell and Jack and his Laura went to walk about eight o'clock with Benjie and Mary Benjie here we were caught and followed and Wax and Jack leaving the young ladies more and more behind the ladies then returned to the rooms without being discovered. Did you hear the whistling that told you that Benjie and I were at the back door ready to come in at eleven o'clock one night? They have had

Alice,

Did you know there was a "Concert" in the fall term of 1872? where I sat with a young lady whose initials are A.B.W. and whom the respected teacher said could sit with "me," and what gentle man was it that changed his seat so that he might sit near that young lady? And who was it that was called to my side by a certain bell? And how was it we got out of the entry without any one's seeing us? And what did we do when we found the doors were locked? And who was it that helped us get into a certain window? The fall term of '73 will always be thought of when the Chilvers go down to the Village for an entertainment. When three friends A.B.B. A.W. and I W. moved stealthily to the appointed place. What gruff tones are those issuing from Snobs window, surely they are the Dragons, And the interjections that are uttered.

But we soon hear low peals of laughing from the person  $\frac{5}{1}$  <sup>base</sup> and we listen, but find it is only the person who prompted me out.
And we are not yet found out.

Dear Alice;

In future years,
when you recall to mind the "Derry girls," will you not think of your true friend, to tell of the wanderers return.

I hope Mary is not offended because he did not bow to her. Get on your knees and tell the story, the old old story, always fresh and sweet. this time not the latter. Emma & Fattie have gone to the Depot to see some one I do not know who. Oh! Alice! I cut my finger with a miserable little jack
